The Rector's Message

Nov. 17, 2013

Dear People of God

This week I share with you a reflection written by former Rector, Rt. Revd. Dr. Robert Thompson, Suffragan Bishop of Kingston.

“What does it mean to say Sunday after Sunday in the Nicene Creed, “we believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the Giver of Life”? My prayer and hope is that after our services today we would have come a little closer in our understanding of the work of Holy Spirit in our lives. “In the beginning, when the Earth was without form and void, the Spirit of God was moving over the face of the waters.” (Genesis 1:2) The same Spirit inspired men and women down the ages to discern and obey the will of God and to proclaim it with courage. It was the same Spirit that empowered Jesus for His earthly ministry. On the first Pentecost Day, the coming of the Holy Spirit was dramatized in spectacular form with tongues of fire and the disciples speaking in tongues.

The impression we are often left with is that the coming of the spirit must be accompanied by unusual and extraordinary happenings. In that wonderful passage from 1 Kings Chapter 19, we read that this is not necessarily so. We are told for example of a mighty wind, an earthquake and a fire. However when God conversed with Elijah it was in a still, small voice, in other words through the sound of a gentle breeze. What God wants of Elijah is strong action, but the commission is laid on him in a gentle whisper. Today in our worship let each one of us affirm the presence of the Holy Spirit as we live out our lives in the day to day events, but let us by doing this acknowledge that the Spirit often speaks to us in silence, in the quite of our ordinary lives. Unless we acknowledge this we may never discern His presence.”

We extend a warm welcome to all those visiting with us today.

Taken from all lands.

All of our service, Lord
To Your people here.

We bring You bread, O Lord,
Wheat the grain of earth
We bring ourselves, O Lord
Chosen from our birth.

We dance for You, O Lord,
May we praise You long;

QUOTE FOR REFLECTION

“To give glory to God, in the biblical phrase, is to enjoy that fellowship, to come to reflect God’s own character of outgoing love and humbly to have God and not one’s self as the centre. There lies man’s true status, true freedom and true destiny.

Do not be afraid of looking towards heaven, for heaven is the meaning of our existence as created in God’s likeness for fellowship with him.
